

Invisible threads

Great leadership often happens in the moments no one notices—small check-ins, thoughtful gestures, and quiet support that strengthens relationships.

This week, think about where you can make an invisible difference. Perhaps it's a word of encouragement, helping someone solve a minor challenge, or being present in a difficult moment.

How will those threads, woven consistently, build a stronger foundation for your team?