

Speak last

This week in your meetings, listen more and speak last. Before contributing, let everyone else have their say—especially the quieter members of your team.

Ask open-ended questions like: “What’s your take on this?” or “What options haven’t we considered yet?”

Then, summarise key insights to reinforce understanding and inclusion. See how this small change empowers others to speak up and enhances the quality of decisions.