

Lean on each other

The most resilient teams are those that talk, check in, and back each other without being asked.

Encourage your team to speak up when they're struggling.

Model it yourself.

Support might mean a kind word, a shared task, or just noticing.

That's not soft. That's strength.