

Building healthier teams

Winter Stories

People won't remember most of the data from this season.
But they'll remember the stories.

The nurse who stayed late without saying a word.
The porter who calmed a worried family.
The moment of humour that carried the team through a tough hour.

These are the things that give people something to stand on.
Something to feel proud of.

Pick one story from this week and tell it.
Not to inspire or impress.
Just to remind people of the good that's still happening all around them.

Stories help us breathe again.
